About Croydon Flexible Support Services

The Croydon Flexible Support Services is a community based service commissioned by the London Borough of Croydon.

It is a CQC registered domiciliary care service which was last inspected in December 2017 and was rated as 'Good' by the CQC.

It provides individual, one to one, flexible practical and emotional support based on an individual's needs, and currently operates from 7am until 10pm, 365 days a year.

Support enables people to understand and manage their own mental health.

What we can do

We help people to maximise independence and lead a valued life within their local community.

Support is provided by Support Time and Recovery (STR) workers who work with people on a one to one basis in their homes.

They can assist with everyday activities such as daily living skills, attending appointments and accessing advice and advocacy services. They also provide support to help manage physical and mental wellbeing, in addition to signposting you to take part in social and community groups and meaningful activities.

Who is the service for?

This service is for people:

- With mental health needs who are living in the community and may be socially isolated and alone.
- Who need support with daily living activities and who may be able to develop skills with 1:1 support.
- Who need support to manage their medication.
- Who may benefit from developing mental health self-management strategies.
